In 1971, Charter members of the Historical Society worked with Rosemae Wells Campbell to research and produce the book From Trappers to Tourists: Fremont County 1830-1950. This book contains the story of the people and events of these years. It has been reprinted three times. IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO ORDER a book from the Historical Society please contact a Board member today. You may know of others that would like to purchase them. Let us know!

In the decades before World War I, industrialists such as John D. Rockefeller had become millionaires; by the early years of the 20th century labor unrest blossomed in the United States, particularly in the coal mine industry. Strikes grew into riots occurring throughout the US, and then into full scale battles, the most famous of which was in 1914, the Ludlow Coal Massacre, when Colorado National Guard opened fire on a tent city of striking miners and their families in Ludlow Colorado.

Basic Facts

On April 20, 1914, Colorado National Guardsmen attacked a tent colony of 1,200 striking miners at Ludlow, Colorado, looting and burning the

You are invited to join Fremont Stones 'n Bones and our many friends to explore Fremont County's quite remarkable local geology this fall. Our geology and fossils are evident in not only the surrounding countryside in such places the Royal Gorge, Temple Canyon, Red Canyon Park, Garden Park Fossil Area, and Skyline Drive but it is evident in the our buildings stone walls, bricks and mortar, our rock gardens and our collections.

It's a chance to learn about the world around us and additionally this fall Fremont County is celebrating a "Welcome Back!" campaign to invite friends from outside our community to come see our backyard!

See page 2 for details.
